

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN RIGHTS

May 22, 2020

We are here to help.

COVID-19 has affected various aspects of life for Iowa residents, communities, and businesses. Information surrounding COVID-19 is rapidly changing and can be overwhelming. To help Iowans navigate information, the Iowa Department of Human Rights has compiled some resources about health and safety, language access, food, employment, grants, and more that we will be sending out in a weekly email. We hope these resources will help Iowans stay safe, healthy, informed, and resilient during these challenging times.

During the pandemic, it is especially important for us to serve as a catalyst of information to provide support and resources to Iowans, particularly vulnerable Iowans who are experiencing additional challenges, to help them understand the state's response to COVID-19.

Utility Disconnections Can Resume

Iowa Utilities Board News Release 5/20/20

The Iowa Utilities Board announced that certain conditions and requirements must be met before disconnection of customers' utility service can resume.

Starting May 28, municipal utilities providing electric and natural gas service and electric cooperatives may resume disconnection of service, subject to certain conditions and requirements.

Starting July 1, investor-owned utilities that are rate-regulated by the Iowa Utilities Board can resume disconnections of natural gas, electric, and water service, subject to conditions and requirements.

There are exceptions for a customer or a member of the customer's household who tested positive for COVID-19 or for a customer who has a health condition that requires the use of electric or natural gas service.

The order uses a phased in approach to allow customers time to seek assistance or enter into a payment agreement with the utility.

An individual who receives a disconnection notice or who has difficulty paying a utility bill is encouraged to contact their local community action agency.

Home Energy Assistance Application Deadline Extended to June 30, 2020

Iowa families are facing many challenges as they cope with the COVID-19 virus. Some have lost jobs or had their hours of employment reduced. These circumstances could lead to difficulty in paying their utility bill.

There is help available through the Iowa Department of Human Rights' network of local community action agencies that have offices in all 99 counties. Families can apply for the Low-Income Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) that can help pay a portion of an eligible household's utility bill. Those who have not already applied, or who are facing disconnection, are encouraged to do so at this time.

The deadline for individuals to apply has been extended to June 30, 2020.

Community action agencies also have other types of help available, such as food and clothing pantries, and other services. You can find a link to information about your local community action agency by going to the Iowa Department of Human Rights' website at <https://humanrights.iowa.gov/dcaa/where-apply> or by dialing 2-1-1.

The extended LIHEAP application deadline information is available in multiple languages on the Iowa Department of Human Rights' website at <https://humanrights.iowa.gov/covid-19/language-access>.

Beware of Scams

Utility Scams

If you receive a call, email, or an unscheduled visit from someone claiming to be from your utility company, the Iowa Utilities Board reminds customers never to provide credit card numbers or other personal information when receiving suspicious contact or demands for immediate payment. Customers should contact their utility company directly regarding payment and service.

Customers can report suspicious scam activity to the Consumer Protection Division of the Iowa Attorney General's Office or by calling 888-777-4590.

For more information, visit the Iowa Utility Board's website: <https://bit.ly/3g3OpfK>

Scammers are using a number of methods to defraud consumers using scams and misinformation about testing, treatment, and charities. The Iowa Department of Human Rights has compiled a Q&A on how to protect yourself against coronavirus myths, rumors, and scams at <https://humanrights.iowa.gov/covid-19/myth-busters>.

Take the 2020 Census

The Iowa Department of Human Rights reminds Iowans to complete the 2020 Census. The Department's governor-appointed commissioners are raising awareness in their local communities on the value of completing the census.

Getting a complete and accurate count of the state's population affects federal funding, congressional representation, and impact on communities. The census asks questions about people living in the household, race, age, and sex. Census data determines how federal funding is allocated to states and local communities for health, education, transportation, and more vital programs. You can respond by mail, online, or over the phone.

To help everyone respond to the census, visit the U.S. Census Bureau's website for translated information and videos in multiple languages, American Sign Language, and braille and large print.
